The second chapter at Miami was never revived. Its life was short, extending over a period of only seven months, during which time there was the usual summer vacation. After commencement in 1852, when the Society made its existence known, there was no longer any reason for a second chapter in the university, and, accordingly, Ohio Beta surrendered its charter.

Following the example of the parent chapter, Kentucky Alpha granted a charter for a second chapter at Centre College. This was done in February, 1855, when the membership of Kentucky Alpha was nineteen. In the following July the existence of two chapters in the same institution was deemed to be no longer necessary, and the charter of the second chapter was then surrendered. In no other Fraternity has there been an instance of bicameral chapters in the same institution.

Later History of Ohio Alpha.

The graduation of members of Phi Delta Theta in 1857, and the failure of others to return weakened Ohio Alpha, and it suspended in the autumn of that year. It was revived in the autumn of 1865, and flourished until June, 1873, when the university closed. On the reopening of Miami in the autumn of 1885, Phi Delta Theta was reorganized there, and the parent chapter has been prosperous ever since.

In 1899 Ohio Alpha had a large reunion of its alumni who celebrated its Golden Jubilee. A week before the celebration a large granite tablet, commemorating the founding of Phi Delta Theta, was placed on the outer wall of the room where the first meeting was held in 1848.

Ohio Alpha, during the first period of its existence, from 1848 to 1857, had no permanent place of meeting. It occupied several halls during its second period, from 1865 to 1873, and from its reorganization in 1885 until 1900. It rented a house from 1900 to 1905, and in the latter year purchased a frame house, the first house owned by any fraternity at Miami. This house was sold in 1907, and a brick and stone house was completed in 1908. This house was built, on ground furnished free by the university, at a cost of $23,000 contributed partly by the chapter and partly by the Fraternity. It is called the Phi Delta Theta Memorial Chapter House. It contains a fire-proof annex, in which is kept the Library of the Fraternity.

The National Convention of 1910 adopted a resolution which provides that, if possible, the Fraternity shall secure the custody of the room in the North Dormitory of Miami University in which Phi Delta Theta was founded, and in which shall be preserved souvenirs of the Founders and other historic relics.

Development After the Civil War.

For several years after the war all of the institutions in the South and many of those in the North were in a very depressed condition. Phi Delta Theta made no further extension until 1868, when it established chapters at Indiana Asbury (now DePauw) University and Ohio University.

Of the chapters that suspended on account of the Civil War, the chapter at Franklin was revived in 1869, suspended in 1872, and was revived in the same year; the chapter at Ohio Wesleyan was revived in 1871, suspended in 1877, and was finally revived in 1879; the chapter at Wisconsin was revived in 1880, and the chapter at Northwestern in 1886; the chapter at Lawrence is still inactive. The Hanover chapter, chartered in 1861, was not organized until 1868.

In 1869 a chapter was organized at Roanoke College in Virginia; and from that State the Fraternity was introduced into Georgia, and thence it spread throughout the South. Phi Delta Theta first entered the East in 1872, when a chapter was established at Cornell. Another eastern institution, Lafayette, was entered in 1873, and in the same year the banner of the Fraternity was carried across the continent and planted in California. During the next twenty years Phi Delta Theta made remarkable advancement in the East, West and South. It became firmly entrenched in all sections.

Phi Delta Theta now has eighty-five active college chapters in thirty-five States of the United States and two Provinces of Canada. Any one who is informed as to the higher institutions of learning in North America can see that Phi Delta Theta has a well balanced distribution of chapters. It is not a sectional Fraternity, but in a true sense a National Fraternity, and the Canadian chapters make it international.

Of the eighty-five active chapters, twenty-nine are in State universities—Alabama, California, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio (3 universities), Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin.

Seven other chapters are in institutions that receive State support—Dartmouth College, Cornell University, Pennsylvania State College, University of Pittsburgh, Georgia School of Technology, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Purdue University, Iowa State College, Oregon Agricultural College, State College of Washington.

Eighteen institutions in which there are chapters receive Federal support—Cornell, Purdue, Alabama Polytechnic, Pennsylvania State, Iowa State, Washington State, Oregon Agricultural, Ohio State University, and the Universities of California, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Vermont, Wisconsin.

The University of Toronto receives support from the Province of Ontario, and the University of Cincinnati from the City of Cincinnati.

Phi Delta Theta has chapters in all of the larger universities in the United States, except in Princeton, where secret fraternities are prohibited, and in Harvard and Yale, where class societies and local customs interfere with the success of four-year fraternities. Phi Delta Theta, like every other fraternity, has some chapters in the smaller colleges, but all of them are historic institutions, and are attended by students of the best class in their respective sections.

The very strict requirements of the Fraternity with regard to the standing of the institutions which it has entered, and with regard to the character of the men to whom charters have been granted, have caused the rejection of many applications for charters from institutions in which other fraternities are established.

Fraternities Absorbed by Phi Delta Theta.

Phi Delta Theta has absorbed several small fraternities. In 1878 it absorbed the parent chapter of the Phi Sigma League at Lombard, which was the only surviving chapter of that organization. Alumni of Phi Sigma were accepted as members of Phi Delta Theta. In 1879 Phi Delta Theta absorbed the Centre chapter of the Delta Kappa Fraternity, which was the last surviving chapter of that organization except one at Dartmouth which died in 1882. Phi Delta Theta absorbed the Texas and Southwestern chapters of the Rainbow or W. W. W. Fraternity in 1885-86, when the other two chapters, at Mississippi and Vanderbilt, united with Delta Tau Delta. Phi Delta Theta, in 1886-87, absorbed the chapters of Kappa Sigma Kappa at Randolph-Macon, Richmond, Virginia Military Institute and Washington and Lee, which were the last surviving chapters of that organization.

Many local organizations have been chartered as chapters of Phi Delta Theta—Sigma Phi, at Syracuse; Sigma Rho, at Brown; Alpha Nu, at Illinois; Phi Lambda Omicron, at Case; Gamma Nu Sigma, at Cincinnati; Delta Phi, at University of Washington; Phi Tau, at Kentucky; Lambda Gamma, at University of Colorado; Beta Phi, at Georgia Tech.; Delta Chi, at Pennsylvania State; Zeta Sigma Nu, at Toronto; Kappa Phi Alpha, at Idaho; Delta Phi, at Washburn; Delta Sigma, at Oregon; Alpha Tau Delta, at Colorado College; Alpha Nu Epsilon, at Denison; Delta Theta, at Oklahoma; Sigma Alpha, at Colgate; Kappa Sigma Nu, at Oregon Agricultural; Delta Sigma Pi, at Pittsburgh; Delta, at Washington State; Tau Alpha Omicron, at Swarthmore; Incognito Society, at Tulane; Texta Club, at Washington University; Tridentia Society, at South Dakota; Varsity Bachelor Club, at North Dakota; Caducia Club, at Iowa State; and Amici Fidissimi, at Utah.

Alumni members of these organizations have, on initiation, been received into the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity.

Careers of Chapters Suspended and Re-established.

Phi Delta Theta was the first Fraternity to enter the States of Texas (1853), Wisconsin (1857), Nebraska (1875), and South Dakota (1906). In entering Texas, it was the first Fraternity to cross the Mississippi River.

Phi Delta Theta was the pioneer Fraternity at Wittenberg, Wisconsin, Northwestern, Butler, Franklin, Nebraska, Vanderbilt, Texas, Stanford, South Dakota, Whitman. It was the second Fraternity established at Indiana and Centre. Chapters which Beta Theta Pi had established in those institutions had suspended, and there was no other Fraternity in either of them or in any other institution in Indiana or Kentucky. Phi Delta Theta was the second Fraternity established also at Iowa Wesleyan, California, Vermont, Westminster, Minnesota, Southwestern, Case, Idaho, Washburn.

During the first thirty-five years of the Fraternity, anti-fraternity laws caused a number of chapters to be sub rosa for years, others to suspend temporarily and some to suspend permanently.

On account of faculty opposition to secret societies, the fourth chapter, Indiana Beta, established at Wabash in 1850, remained sub rosa until 1862-63. In 1874 anti-fraternity laws were enacted at Ohio Wesleyan, and their enforcement was attempted for a year or two. The Nebraska chapter, chartered in 1875, found neither faculty nor students favorable to fraternities, and suspended in 1876; it was revived in 1883. The Vanderbilt chapter, chartered in 1876, was not fairly organized until 1877, on account of anti-fraternity laws, which rendered sub rosa existence necessary until 1883. In 1877, shortly after the organization of the chapter at Alabama, it was forced by adverse legislation to suspend; it was revived in 1883, and the anti-fraternity laws were repealed two years later. Because of faculty opposition, the Georgia chapter was sub rosa from 1875 to 1878; the Missouri chapter from 1881 to 1884 and the Auburn chapter from 1881 to 1883. The Knox chapter suspended in 1878, on account of anti-fraternity laws; these having been repealed, the chapter was revived in 1880; it suspended again in 1882, and was finally revived in 1884. The chapters at North Carolina and Illinois were chartered soon after the repeal of anti-fraternity laws.

The charter of the chapter at Georgetown, granted in 1857, was withdrawn during the same year because of the faculty's hostility; the chapter was re-established in 1875, but died the next year for the same reason. The chapters at Wittenberg, Monmouth, Central (Missouri), Trinity (Texas), Trinity (North Carolina), K. M. I. and V. M. I. were killed by anti-fraternity regulations. These regulations have been repealed at Wittenberg and Trinity (North Carolina). The chapter at Wooster was inactive 1880-81, and surrendered its charter in 1897; the trustees of the institution prohibited fraternities there in 1913. The chapter at Wofford died in 1884, and in 1907 fraternities were prohibited from initiating students there, but this regulation was repealed in 1916. The chapter at South Carolina died in 1893, and, by an act of the Legislature in 1897, fraternities were excluded from State institutions. Similar legislation in Mississippi in 1912 caused the chapter there to suspend.

The isolated chapter at Austin College suspended in 1854, was revived in 1858, and died the same year. The Oglethorpe chapter died on account of the closing of the institution. The charters of the chapters at Richmond, Buchtel and Illinois Wesleyan were surrendered because of the decrease in the attendance of students. The charters of the Terre Haute, Roanoke, Hillsdale, Lansing, C. C. N. Y. and Southern chapters were withdrawn because the Fraternity did not desire to continue at those institutions.

The Miami chapter suspended in 1857, was revived in 1865, suspended on account of the closing of the university in 1873, and was revived in 1885, when the university was re-opened. The Chicago chapter suspended in 1871, and was re-established in the new University of Chicago in 1897. For various reasons, several chapters have been temporarily inactive—the Michigan chapter, 1869-80 and 1880-87; the DePauw chapter, 1870-71, 1872-75 and 1876-80; the Cornell chapter, 1876-86; the California chapter, 1877-86; the Lehigh chapter, 1877-87; the Columbia chapter, 1890-93.

Kentucky Alpha, established at Centre College, Danville, Ky., in 1850, and Kentucky Delta, at Central University, Richmond, Ky., in 1885, were combined as Kentucky Alpha-Delta, in 1901, when the two institutions were consolidated under the name of Central University, which is located at Danville.

All chapters have had a continuous existence except where their suspension, temporary or permanent, has been mentioned.

The six chapters for which the National Convention granted charters on January 2, 1918—at Colgate, Swarthmore, Pittsburgh, Oklahoma, and the State Colleges of Oregon and Washington—had not been installed when this book went to press, hence their membership lists are not included in this edition of the Catalogue.

Of the eighty-five active chapters, fifty-nine own the houses in which they live. The values of these houses are as follows: Alabama, $10,000; Alabama Polytechnic, $10,000; California, $43,000; Stanford, $9,000; Colorado College, $16,000; Emory, $2,000; Idaho, $6,000; Northwestern, $10,000; Lombard, $6,000; Illinois, $16,000; Indiana, $15,000; Wabash, $12,000; Butler, $10,000; Franklin, $5,000; Hanover, $5,000; DePauw, $8,000; Purdue, $30,000; Iowa Wesleyan, $8,000; Iowa State, $25,000; Kansas, $18,000; Washburn, $12,000; Tulane, $15,000; Williams, $70,000; Amherst, $45,000; Michigan, $26,000; Minnesota, $20,000; Missouri, $35,000; Westminster, $6,500; Dartmouth, $20,000; Cornell, $36,000; Union, $30,000; Columbia, $45,000; Syracuse, $37,000; Colgate, $15,000; North Carolina, $6,000; North Dakota, $25,000; Miami, $22,000; Ohio Wesleyan, $12,500; Ohio, $15,000; Ohio State, $12,000; Case, $23,000; Denison, $15,000; Toronto, $20,000; Lafayette, $30,000; Gettysburg, $4,500; Allegheny, $16,000; Dickinson, $8,000; Pennsylvania, $45,000; Lehigh, $25,000; Pennsylvania State, $20,000; McGill, $15,000; South Dakota, $12,000; Vanderbilt, $25,000; Sewanee, $15,000; Texas, $13,500; Vermont, $12,000; Whitman, $14,000; Washington State (Pullman), $10,000; Wisconsin, $35,000. The total value is $1,127,000, not including $37,400, the value of building sites owned by the chapters at Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Westminster, Ohio Wesleyan, Virginia, Washington and Utah. The value of chapter house furnishings is $109,100.

An Extended Society the Original Object.

On December 30, 1848, the parent chapter adopted a name for the Society, a motto, a Bond, Articles of Union and a Constitution.

The Articles of Union specified that such persons as were contemplated in the Bond should be elected to membership, and no others; they prescribed the form of a preliminary pledge of secrecy, and they included an initiation ceremony.

The Founders of Phi Delta Theta intended that it should be not a local but an inter-collegiate Society. The Articles of Union provided for the establishment of chapters, directed how they should be chartered and organized, specified how they should be entitled, defined the relations which should exist between them, required that they should annually make reports of their membership, and provided the means whereby their charters might be withdrawn. Provisions were made for appeals from the decisions of chapters, for a system of membership reports, to be made annually by the chapters, and for amending the Articles of the Union.

The Founders, before they had added to their number, before the Society was one week old, had formulated and adopted these far-reaching plans. They thought of everything important; they did their work well. For a Society just launched on its career, the Articles of Union were wonderfully complete; they contained all essential features. In fact, they were so complete that they were not amended for nearly a quarter of a century. The faith of the Founders in the fundamental principles on which Phi Delta Theta was based was justified by the wonderful growth and prosperity of the Fraternity in succeeding years, and the machinery of organization which they devised proved to be strongly and skillfully constructed.

In the Articles of Union Phi Delta Theta was called not a "Fraternity," but "this Society," and "the Order of the Phi Delta Theta"; while a local branch of it was called, not a chapter, but a "college." No other Greek-letter association ever used the word "college" in this sense. In the Articles of Union the parent "college" at Miami University was called "the Ohio Alpha" and "the Ohio Alpha College of the Phi Delta Theta."

The Articles of Union provided for entitling colleges by the names of the States in which they were to be established and the Greek letters in alphabetical order. It is fortunate that this system was adopted, as it is the best system for a large fraternity, because it is easier to remember the names of chapters thus entitled than the Greek letters unaccompanied with the names of States.

A footnote to the Constitution of 1898 authorized chapters to be designated in common parlance by the names of the institutions or towns in which they are located. Thus, New York Alpha is frequently called the Cornell chapter and Tennessee Beta the Sewanee chapter.

The Constitution, adopted by the Phi Delta Theta Society on December 30, 1848, provided for the government of the parent chapter, which was therein called "The Society," "this Society," "this Association," and "the Ohio Alpha College of the Phi Delta Theta." On April 25, 1849, the Society adopted By-laws for the Ohio Alpha college.

The first Convention of Phi Delta Theta was held in 1851, when the Fraternity was just three years old. The first five conventions, including the one held in 1864, were called General Conventions. The sixth, held in 1868, and all held since then have been called National Conventions.

In 1865 an Indiana State Phi Delta Theta Convention was held at Indianapolis. It was the first State Convention held by any college fraternity. In subsequent years State Conventions were held in Indiana and other States. Since the province system was established, in 1880, Province Conventions and joint Province Conventions have been held between the meetings of the National Convention.

Until 1871 all the colleges of Phi Delta Theta were governed by the Articles of Union which had been adopted in 1848. Each college also had for its own government a Constitution, which was similar to the Constitution of Ohio Alpha, but which each college could change at will. The National Convention of 1871 adopted a Constitution for all chapters, to take the place of the Articles of Union, but it contained, practically unchanged, all of the material features and most of the language of the Articles.

In the new instrument Phi Delta Theta was called "the Organization," "the Association," "the Order," and once "the Fraternity." For "college" the word "chapter" was substituted, the words "society" and "association" also being used synonomously. The National Convention of 1874 amended the Constitution so as to substitute "Fraternity" for "Society" wherever it occurred in the Constitution.

The Constitution was amended by various National Conventions, and new revisions were adopted by the Conventions of 1878, 1880, 1886 and 1898. In making the revision in 1898, a Code and other General Statutes were adopted, and only organic laws were retained in the Constitution. The Constitution, Code and other General Statutes were revised in 1906 and in 1918.

In 1880 the Ritual, which had been embodied in the Constitution, was separated from it and amplified. The Ritual has been further amplified in 1891, 1896, 1906 and 1910.

Grand Chapters and the Executive Committee.

The Articles of Union provided that the college at Miami University should be the presiding chapter. The presiding chapter was the Miami chapter from 1848 to 1858, the Indiana chapter from 1858 to 1860, the Centre (now Central) chapter from 1860 to 1868, the Chicago chapter from 1868 to 1869, the Miami chapter from 1869 to 1873, the Wooster chapter from 1873 to 1878 and the Lafayette chapter from 1878 to 1880. In conversation and correspondence the Ohio Alpha college at Miami University was called "the Grand Alpha" and "the Grand Chapter," as also were the Central and Chicago chapters while each of them was the presiding chapter. In the Constitution of 1871 the presiding chapter was termed "the Grand Alpha Chapter," and in the Constitution of 1874 "the National Grand Chapter."

The Articles of Union provided that the first college chartered in each State should receive reports from the other colleges in the State, and should forward the same to the presiding college at Miami. In conversation and correspondence the Alpha college, or first chapter in each State, was called "the State Grand Chapter."

The National Convention of 1868 directed that the President of each Convention should appoint an Executive Committee. Each Executive Committee thus appointed until 1872 selected a President and a Secretary from its members. Beginning with 1872, the President and Secretary of each National Convention became, ex officio, the President and Secretary of the Executive Committee. From 1868 to 1872, the principal duties of the Executive Committee were to make arrangements for the next Convention and to apportion the assessment necessary to pay the expenses of the next Convention. Beginning with 1872, the Executive Committee became an executive body in fact as well as in name, though its powers were yet not well defined.

An amendment to the Constitution, adopted in 1873, provided that a Grand Banker should be added to the general officers of the Fraternity. This Convention ordered that the Grand Banker should apportion the assessment necessary to pay the expenses of the next Convention. From the time the office was created, the Grand Banker became, ex officio, a member of the Executive Committee.

Until 1876 the Executive Committee numbered from five to seven members. By an act of the National Convention of 1876, it was then reduced to four members. The President and Secretary of the National Convention continued to be the President and Secretary of the Executive Committee. The other two members were the Grand Banker, elected by the Convention, and a member of the National Grand Chapter, elected by that chapter. For the first time, the functions of the Executive Committee were clearly defined by the Convention of 1876. Besides specified powers, the Committee was given the power of acting at its discretion between National Conventions, its actions being subject to review by the Convention.

By the Constitution adopted in 1878, State Grand Chapters were abolished and the powers of the Executive Committee were enlarged.

The General Council, Province Presidents and Trustees.

Under the revision of the Constitution in 1880, the National Grand Chapter was abolished and the Executive Committee was changed to a General Council, composed of four members—a President, a Secretary, a Treasurer and a Historian. The revision provided also that the Fraternity should be divided into provinces, and that each province should have a President, who should be chosen by the General Council.

From the time the first members of Phi Delta Theta were graduated, the alumni members have shown great interest in the Fraternity. Most of the members of the Executive Committee were alumni. When the General Council and the province system were established, a few undergraduates were chosen as members of the Council and as Province Presidents, but after a few years all the officers of the Fraternity were elected from the alumni.

The "Phi Delta Theta Fraternity" was incorporated under the State laws of Ohio on March 12, 1881. At a meeting of the incorporators, held immediately after incorporation, they selected a Board of Trustees, which consisted of the four members of the General Council as officers and five other members. This Board of Trustees was not changed until 1898.

An amendment to the Constitution, adopted in 1896, provided that the General Council should have a fifth member—a Reporter, who should be, ex officio, Editor and Manager of The Scroll and The Palladium. Another amendment, then adopted, provided that there should be a Fraternity Librarian.

The Constitution of 1898 provided that the Board of Trustees should consist of the five members of the General Council, who should be its officers, and of two Alumni Commissioners and two Chapter House Commissioners. These nine trustees were constituted the legal representatives of the Fraternity; and while the General Council was charged with the business administration, the four Commissioners, besides having special duties relating to the alumni and to the chapter houses, were empowered to act with the General Council in all matters relating to the membership. In this respect the nine Trustees were made a court of appeals.

By provisions of the Constitution of 1898, the office of the Editor of the Catalogue and the office of the Editor of the History were made permanent, each to be filled by each National Convention.

An amendment to the Constitution, adopted in 1908, provided that there should be only one Alumni Commissioner and one Chapter House Commissioner; and further provided that the Editor of the Catalogue and the Fraternity Librarian should be members of the Board or Trustees, the number of members of the Board still remaining nine.

An amendment to the Code, adopted in 1910, provided for life subscriptions for The Scroll and The Palladium, and for the investment of the funds received from such subscriptions by three Endowment Trustees.

The General Council, in 1916, and the National Convention, in 1918, provided for the appointment of an Alumnus Adviser for each chapter, to be nominated by the chapter and confirmed by the General Council.

An Historical Constitutional Parallel.

The Bond of the Phi Delta Theta, adopted on December 30, 1848, is the fundamental law of the Fraternity. Its style is stately, its dignified diction beyond criticism. No one has ever suggested wherein it could be improved. It expresses the ideals that should inspire every member. Unquestionably it has exercised a beneficial influence on the lives of the thousands who have accepted it. In his initiation vows, every person who joins Phi Delta Theta pledges himself to uphold it. The same pledge has been taken by every person initiated since the organization of the Fraternity. So far as is shown by the literature of the various fraternities, no other fraternity has an instrument which embodies its principles and fundamental laws, which has been unaltered since it was founded and which is unalterable.

There is a parallel between the organic laws of the United States and those of Phi Delta Theta.

In the Declaration of Independence our revolutionary forefathers set forth the reasons which impelled them to establish their separate political existence. In the Bond of the Phi Delta Theta the Founders declared the principles upon which the Fraternity is based.

The Fathers of the Republic adopted Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union to govern, in their federal relations, the States which had been colonies. The Founders of the Phi Delta Theta adopted Articles of Union to govern the relations between the colleges, as chapters were then called.

The Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union having been found to give the Federal Government insufficient powers, a Constitution for the United States was adopted, and each State adopted its own Constitution. So in Phi Delta Theta, the Articles of Union were supplanted by the Constitution of the Order and the Constitution of Chapters, each chapter having its own By-laws.

If the analogy were carried further, it could be shown that, as the United States Government became more centralized and the powers of the States more restricted, by amendments to the Constitution, so the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity was changed, by combining the Constitution of the Order and the Constitution of Chapters into one Constitution, which provided for a more centralized government than that which had before existed.

Phi Delta Theta Alumni Clubs.

The first Convention of the Society, held in 1851, authorized the organization of a higher Order to be known as "The Order of the Phi Delta Theta," in distinction from "The Phi Delta Theta Society." The former, composed of alumni chosen from the latter, should meet annually with public literary exercises, and should have the power of granting charters and of general supervision. A meeting of the higher Order was held at Oxford, Ohio, in 1852, and another in 1853. In 1853 the reunion extended over two days. In addition to private meetings on both days, the alumni and active members present marched, on the first day, to the grove on the Miami campus, where public exercises were held and a literary address was delivered; and, in the evening of the second day, public exercises were held and a poem read in the university chapel. The plan for a "Senior Order," as it was sometimes called, was abandoned after 1853, because there were then so few alumni. This higher Order was a unique organization; it preceded any attempt by any other college secret society to vest in experienced alumni the management of general society affairs.

A Phi Delta Theta alumni chapter was organized at Indianapolis in the fall of 1871. The National Convention of 1872 decided that alumni chapters were impracticable. The Convention of 1874, however, declared that such chapters would be beneficial for the Fraternity, and urged alumni in the larger cities to establish them. In 1876 an alumni chapter was established at Franklin, Ind. In revising the Constitution in 1898, the designation alumni chapters was changed to alumni clubs. There are now over a hundred clubs. They observe Founders' Day, March 15, and Alumni Day, October 15, and many of them in the larger cities meet at luncheon weekly.
